

CRIMINALS: THE PRICE OF LENIENCY

LAST MARCH a black youth, Harrison Smith, appeared in court charged with no less than 35 mugging offences, mainly in the Kentish Town area of London. Admitting to the offences, he escaped going to jail and instead was ordered to perform 160 hours community service. Explaining this ridiculously soft sentence, the judge, Mr. Justice

Woolf, said that he was prepared to give Smith a chance to 'go straight' because he had received a report of a 'change of heart' on the part of the accused from a probation officer.

This lenient treatment, so typical of today's modern 'liberal' judges, brought strong protests from the victims of the muggings. And did Smith change his ways? Not a bit of it. Only three weeks later he took part in a series of terrifying armed hold-ups of building societies in North London which netted £6,000.*

Charged with these offences alongside two other blacks, Eurlan Murray and Leroy David, Smith was sentenced to 4 years' youth custody. Passing sentence, the judge, David Tudor Price, told the accused: "It would be utterly wrong for the court to show you any leniency now."

In fact it was appalling for Smith to be shown leniency in the first place. Just think of it — 35 muggings! And the animal was allowed to keep his freedom. Judge Woolf himself should have been clapped inside for such a criminal dereliction of duty.

While Britain's do-gooder judges and probation officers are still at large in the numbers that they are, there is going to be no effective clean-up of the massive crime wave sweeping the nation. We demand the sacking of these useless idiots NOW and their replacement by men who can be relied upon to make crime something that truly does not pay.

Rhodesia—Zimbabwe

IN A SQUARE IN 'HARARE' (formerly Salisbury), the capital of 'Zimbabwe' (formerly Rhodesia) lies the site where there once stood the statue of Cecil Rhodes, the man whose brains, industry and pioneering genius created that country from out of a wilderness. As black rule took over the country a short time ago, the statue was gleefully demolished and is now no more.

This act of demolition was symbolic. Rhodes was a builder, a constructor. Those who now run Rhodesia/Zimbabwe are capable only of destruction.

When politicians in Britain began agitating in the 1960s for 'majority rule', i.e. black rule, in what was then Rhodesia, British Nationalists said that they were dangerously and insanely wrong, and that in no way would it be possible in the event of a black take-over to retain the standards that attended white domination in that country: economic and living standards, standards of order and justice, standards of incorruptible political leadership. The whole of the experience of decolonisation throughout Africa underlined this.

COMMUNIST STATE

But the politicians — of all the major parties — pressed ahead with the task of dismantling white power and substituting 'black power', the Conservatives no less than the others. In fact it was under Mrs. Thatcher's last Government that the British Foreign Office supervised the transfer of power in the person of the disastrous Lord Carrington. As Nationalists predicted, that power went to a Marxist and terrorist, Robert Mugabe, and the fine country that was once Rhodesia is now a Communist state, with all the combination of inefficiency and brutality that we see in other Communist states.

Mrs. Thatcher's Government, which loudly proclaims its resolve to defend the West against the Soviet Bloc, just handed a rich and valuable country over to the Soviet Bloc.

When that country was Rhodesia it cost Britain nothing; its young men had come and fought for Britain in two world wars, but it asked nothing in return; it was economically self-supporting.

Now 'Zimbabwe' costs the British taxpayer many millions of pounds a year in 'aid'; so inefficient is it that it cannot survive without that aid. Like the idiots they are, our political leaders continue to give it.

Wholesale corruption rules everywhere. The political bosses line their pockets, live in sumptuous houses and drive about in expensive limousines, while most of the people live in total squalor.

The standards of justice in 'Zimbabwe' were recently demonstrated when a group of Air Force officers

JUSTICE IN 'ZIMBABWE'

(all whites — non-Whites are totally incapable of running a modern air arm) were arrested on trumped up charges of 'sabotage'. 'Confessions' were extracted from them by means of torture but these failed to impress a court, which acquitted them. Immediately upon their acquittal, they were rearrested and detained on the orders of Mugabe's Government. Only strong international pressure, which made Mugabe fear for the continuance of his economic aid, brought about the release of some of those detained; others remain in custody.

Whites in the meantime — who provide all of the brains needed to run the Rhodesian forces and economy — are leaving the country in

OTHER PEOPLE'S WARS

THE VISIT of Foreign Office Minister Richard Luce to Lebanon "to demonstrate British support for President Gemayel", the flight of RAF Buccaneer aircraft over Beirut and the news that a powerful Royal Navy task force is being assembled in the Eastern Mediterranean are alarming developments that prompt us to ask: What on earth is the Government up to?

The escalating violence in Lebanon is unfortunate; but it is not Britain's concern. If the Government persists in meddling in Middle Eastern affairs, it is likely to involve Britain in a conflict that cannot possibly serve our national interests. Are we again to burn our fingers in the Middle East as we did during the days of Britain's Mandate in Palestine, or as we later did at Suez? Are we again going to get involved in other people's wars?

The Government's agreement to send British troops to serve with the "multinational peacekeeping force" in Lebanon was sheer folly because the contending factions have no intention of keeping the peace, and also because the presence of British troops in the area is likely to embroil us in a bloody slaughter resulting in the loss of British lives.

There is absolutely no reason why British forces should be involved in Lebanon. They could be much more usefully employed protecting British territories and interests. Bring them back.

AN EVIL GENIUS

BY ANY conceivable standards Menachem Begin must be regarded as one of the most obnoxious and evil men in recent history. He is a butcher who has lived by the gun and bomb, who arrogantly believes that the Jewish people have a God-given right to usurp territory that rightfully belongs to the Arabs, and who is not averse to using the most brutal methods to further the cause of Zionism and the expansion of Israel. He is the evil genius who arose out of the ashes of Palestine.

Begin's infamy is assured by the countless atrocities which he perpetrated, like the blowing up of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem, the invasion of Lebanon and the massacre at Sabra and Chatila; but it is the ripped bellies of the Arab women of Deir Yassin, many of them pregnant, that will be his lasting memorial.

The departure of Begin from the world stage is no reason for us to imagine that his chauvinist policies or his rampant Zionism have departed with him. No sooner had he tendered his resignation than his Defence Minister, Moshe Arens, announced Israel's intention of annexing the West Bank of the Jordan.

MUGABE'S ZIMBABWE

looks at the monster the Foreign Office created

THE ESCALATING EXODUS of Whites from that fine country once named Rhodesia is the direct result of the infamous Lancaster House Agreement, which ensured that power would ultimately reside in the hands of a bloodthirsty megalomaniac like Robert Mugabe. It is to our eternal shame that it was a British government that devised the Agreement, which has, almost overnight, transformed a civilised and prosperous country into the blood-soaked and barbarous tyranny now called Zimbabwe.

HERBERT USHEWOKUNZE
Has a predilection for pistols

The detention, torture, trial, acquittal and subsequent re-arrest of the six white air force officers confirms what most white Rhodesians and many Britons suspected all along — that under black rule there would be a breakdown of law and order and a reversion to the primitive tribalism which existed in Africa until the coming of the White Man.

The curse of Lord Carrington now hangs over the people of 'Zimbabwe' — Blacks no less than Whites — like the Sword of Damocles. And so it is no wonder that the people who made Rhodesia are leaving the country in droves, taking with them the expertise and know-how without which it is doomed to failure.

Who can blame the Whites for leaving? No one in their right mind is prepared to stay in a country where there is an increasing possibility of having one's family butchered by power-crazed savages. Even so notable a personage as Sir Humphrey Gibbs, the last Governor of Rhodesia, who is certainly no enemy of the Blacks, has given notice that he is about to quit the country.

ECONOMY IN TATTERS THROUGH WHITE EXODUS

As a result of the departure of so many Whites and their replacement in many key jobs by Blacks, the economy is now in tatters; law and order is almost non-existent; rape, murder and other atrocities are now commonplace; tribalism is rampant with Matabeles, Mashonas, Zezurus and Karangas all jockeying for power; and well-fed black politicians drive about in expensive Mercedes (bought from the proceeds of British aid), a law unto themselves and protected from the irate populace by the notorious Korean Fifth Brigade, whose blood-curdling exploits are legion.

Meanwhile, as Zimbabwe gets further into debt, despite British aid, and as crime, terrorism and atrocities abound and the country visibly degenerates, the Great Panjandrum himself, Robert Mugabe,

MUGABE
The great panjandrum

flies from one country to another, hobnobbing with presidents and prime ministers and delivering homilies to assemblies of gullible Western politicians. But his days are probably numbered; for threatening his position are even more sinister merchants of death — people like Josiah Tungamirai, the terrorist who Mugabe made an Air Marshal and put in charge of the Air Force even though he had never been in an aircraft, Major-General Rex Nkhomo who is said to have an IQ that approaches zero, and the evil Herbert Ushewokunze who as Home Affairs Minister ordered the re-arrest of the six air force officers and who was not long ago dismissed as Minister of Health on account of his predilection for using a pistol against those unfortunate enough to get in his way, even in a hospital operating theatre!

Should any of these charming people manage to wrest power from Mugabe, then Zimbabwe will be saddled with a tyrant who will make even sadists like Idi Amin and the Emperor Bokassa appear positively saintly.

NO PROTEST

And while all this is going on what condemnation is heard in the West? Almost none. The World Council of Churches remains mute, as does the Roman Catholic Commission for Justice and Peace. The British Government utters not a word, which is not surprising since it was the Tories who created the madness called 'Zimbabwe', thanks to Carrington's Lancaster House lunacy. The only voices that have been raised have belonged to the seven Roman Catholic bishops in Zimbabwe and the Anglican bishop of Matabeleland, who take their lives in their hands merely by daring to criticise Mugabe and his band of cut-throats.

It is probably now too late for the British Government to make amends to the white and black Rhodesians whom they betrayed; but it is not too late to cut off British aid going to Zimbabwe. The money thus saved should be used to compensate the white Rhodesians whose livelihoods were ruined with the approval of Lord Carrington and Mrs. Thatcher.

SIR HUMPHREY GIBBS
Quitting
Zimbabwe

Give us more!

After Mrs. Thatcher's strictures to the nation that workers' pay rises must be 'earned', it is amusing now to see members of parliament asking for more money. This pay demand has prompted a little jingle by our Editor, which goes:-

*We may be jerks
At top of heap,
Who live on perks —
But we're not cheap!*

*Do as we say,
Not as we do;
We need more pay —
More so than you!*

droves. There were once about 230,000 Europeans in Rhodesia, mostly of British descent; there are now around 140,000.

Whites in the outlying rural areas of the country live in constant terror. Some remaining white settlers have been brutally attacked in their homes by black gangs and hacked to death; the culprits have not been brought to justice.

Black rule — the thing all the leading politicians in Britain wanted — is in fact proving a hideous nightmare in Rhodesia, as we always knew it would.

We condemn Robert Mugabe and the gang of thugs surrounding him for bringing Rhodesia to this position.

But above all we condemn the politicians of Britain's leading political parties, and in particular the Conservative Party, for helping Mugabe to get to power. Without them he would not be there. They aided and abetted him. They stabbed their own people, the British white settlers, in the back. They, more than anyone, are to blame for the reversion of Rhodesia to the rule of the jungle.

For this act of betrayal, they, the politicians of Britain, will one day pay the penalty they deserve.

AS EXPECTED, a complaint made to the Press Council by the editor of British Nationalist, Ronald Rickcord, has been rejected. The complaint, which was reported in our July issue, concerned a cartoon which appeared in The Standard depicting Whites carrying out an armed robbery that was actually committed by two Blacks.

Mr. Rickcord has received a letter from the director of the Press Council informing him that his complaint has been "disallowed". Mr. Rickcord later said that by its "failure to take any positive action over this cartoon, which was misleading as well as an insult to many British people, the Press Council has shown that it is an utterly futile organisation that serves only the purposes of the Establishment." He added: "We can expect that the pro-Establishment, pro-immigrant, anti-British attitude of the Press Council will become even more pronounced now that a Jew, Sir Zelman Cowen, has taken up his new post as chairman of the Council."

THE NUMBER of legal immigrants accepted for settlement in Britain by the Home Office during the second quarter of 1983 was 14,100, bringing the total number accepted so far this year to 26,700. The number of immigrants accepted for settlement during the year ending June 30 was 53,100.

BARRANT DHUE, a 16-year-old youth from Lewisham, was sentenced to six weeks' detention after firing a flare into the face of 17-year-old Elizabeth Weeden. According to Miss Weeden the offence was committed while Dhue was trying to snatch her handbag from her. She was horribly disfigured and her nose has had to be rebuilt by plastic surgery.

FOUR WEST INDIANS from the same family have been charged with injuring two policemen in High Wycombe. One policeman was dragged 50 feet by a flex that was wound round his neck, causing damage to his vocal cords, and his colleague had a china plate smashed in his face causing injuries that necessitated 30 stitches. The attack occurred when the policemen stopped a car to question the occupants.

DR. KEEMTI LAL ARORA of Sheffield has been fined £1,000 and given a nine-month suspended prison sentence for claiming expenses for attending patients in Sheffield while he was on holiday in India.

MISS NICOLA FREUD, 31, daughter of Clement Freud MP, has been given a 15-month suspended prison sentence and fined £500 for supplying cocaine to Mr. Alex Marunchak, a reporter on the staff of the News of the World, and also for supplying cannabis to a builder. Miss Freud has two children and is expecting a third.

FIVE ASIANS who work at Heathrow Airport have been jailed at Aylesbury Crown Court for smuggling more than £1 million worth of heroin from Pakistan. Iqar Masih received 11 years, his brother Comal 8 years, Mohammed Ilyas 13 years, Xhadam Hussain 9 years, and Salim Aboobaker 5 years.

THE DISCIPLINARY Committee of Liverpool City Council has decided not to dismiss a female social worker who had sexual intercourse with a 15-year-old boy in her care, despite having been warned to end her affair with the boy on previous occasions.

SO MANY Asian patients at Sandwell Hospital, West Midlands, are having take-away curries brought into the wards that the hospital has decided to employ an Asian cook to teach the kitchen staff how to prepare curries. The hospital menus will also be written in various Asiatic languages.

THE MAYOR of Rochdale, Councillor Albert Sanderson, hoisted a Moslem flag over Rochdale Town Hall because council workmen refused to do the job. The workmen refused to fly the flag because they thought it wrong to fly a Moslem flag when other organisations had not been allowed to fly their flags by the council.

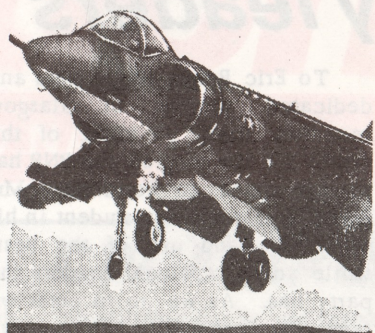

TWO JAMAICAN Rastafarians, Peter Hibbert, 22, and Barrington Crossman, 24, were jailed for life at Southwark Crown Court after being found guilty of raping a number of women and young girls. Hibbert, nicknamed "Asher Dread", and Crossman, known as "The Senator", were told by the judge: "In my experience, these are about the most appalling series of rapes which could have been committed by ordinary human beings."

DEFENCE PROMISES BROKEN

looks at the

FOLLOWING the recapture of the Falkland Islands, the Government promised to replace all the equipment losses sustained during the Falklands War. As a result an order was placed for more Sea Harrier jump-jet fighters, the aircraft which played such a vital rôle in defeating the Argentine air force. That was more than a year ago. So when were the replacements delivered? The answer is that they haven't been delivered yet, and what's more it won't be until some time in late 1984 at the earliest before they roll off the production lines! That's right; it will take at least two years to produce the replacements!

In the meantime, our aircraft carriers have to put to sea with inadequate air cover, and there is even talk of paying off HMS Hermes despite the Government's promise to keep three aircraft carriers in commission. To make matters worse, the Sea King helicopters still haven't been fitted with the early-warning radar which in the Falklands conflict was shown to be essential for detecting low-flying attacker aircraft. Apparently, the modifications won't be completed until 1984. Similarly, Royal Air Force Nimrod maritime patrol aircraft have still to be fitted with the Searchwater radar system that the Air Chiefs were promised.

In addition to all these promises, the Government also announced its intention of purchasing 15 ex-US Navy Phantom aircraft to take the place of those that are now based in the Falkland Islands. But where are they? How much longer must the Falkland Islands and Britain herself remain inadequately defended?

During the Falklands War equipment and weapons were rapidly refurbished, converted and brought into service; but now that the war is over the old peacetime red tape and inertia has returned, and matters aren't improved by the Government's failure to ensure that our servicemen get the weapons and equipment that they need in order to perform their duties satisfactorily.

The nigger-in-the-woodpile is that bureaucratic monstrosity set up 12 years ago which is known as the "Defence Procurement Executive". This over-bloated body, staffed by highly-paid personnel, is truly masterful when it comes to shelving decisions, procrastinating and passing the buck. But it is singularly unsuccessful at ensuring that our servicemen get what they need on time. For the security of our country and overseas possessions it is essential that the built-in delay in the procurement of weapons should cease. The way to achieve this is to abolish the DPE now.

If Government promises to strengthen our defences mean anything at all, then the Government should allow the Armed Forces to save time and money by ordering their weapons and equipment direct from industry. Our service chiefs know far more about their requirements and what is necessary to defend British lives and property than any committee of chairborne civil servants sitting in Whitehall.

CONSERVING OUR ENVIRONMENT

STEVEN PARTRIDGE argues that ecology is a matter for Nationalists

CONSPICUOUSLY absent from most Nationalist publications is any reference to the rapid destruction of the environment in which we live, and which is a most important part of our national heritage. That this is so is unfortunate, but understandable: Nationalists already have enough on their plates trying to preserve our Anglo-Saxon-Celtic race without having to take up cudgels on behalf of the environment as well.

Every British patriot worthy of the name should be proud of the landscapes, wildlife and buildings that beautify the British countryside. No other country possesses so many breathtaking views, such a variety of wild animals and birds, such an abundance of native flowers and wealth of plantlife, so many fine old buildings, or more picturesque villages and market towns.

Today, however, many of these things are under dire threat. Many species of birds and mammals that were quite common only a generation ago are now exceedingly rare, and several are in imminent danger of extinction. The same is true of many of the wildflowers that used to throng our woodlands and the verges of our country lanes.

Industrial pollution and modern farming techniques that rely heavily on the use of pesticides are mainly responsible for the harm that is being done to the environment. So bad have things become in some areas that it is now quite an event to see an animal once so common as the frog; while hawks, with the exception of the kestrel, have become quite a rarity.

At present only the Ecology Party cranks voice any protest against this wholesale destruction of the environment, but they are for the most part contemptuously ignored by the British public on account of their anti-nuclear, pro-CND stance and their failure to protest against the most obnoxious pollution of all — the racial pollution to which we are being subjected by the failure of the politicians to stop immigration.

The beauty of the British countryside and its wealth of wildlife are as much a reason for national pride as the artistic and scientific achievements of our forebears; so it is criminal that we allow beautiful hedgerows, ponds, woodlands and buildings to be bulldozed flat to make way for hideously designed housing estates, office blocks, factory units and motorways — all in the name of "progress".

And to a nature-lover like myself it is tragic to think that magnificent creatures like buzzards, kites, badgers and deer are regarded as vermin to be got rid of, even though they are indigenous to these islands, while such alien intruders as West Indians, Indians, Pakistanis,

DOUBLE STANDARDS

The callous shooting down of the South Korean jumbo jet by the Red air force was a barbarous crime by any standards, and the universal condemnation of the Soviet Union resulting from the incident was well deserved. However, the furore unleashed by the international media over this disgraceful affair provides yet another sickening example of the double standards exercised by the media. Readers may remember that five years ago a civilian Viscount airliner was shot down over Rhodesia by the followers of Mr. Joshua Nkomo armed with Russian-made ground-launched missiles. The aircraft crashed with great loss of life. But the greatest barbarity occurred after the crash; for Mr. Nkomo's bloodthirsty colleagues butchered the survivors, many of whom were injured. This dreadful act of inhumanity merited only a fraction of the publicity from the international media compared with that which has been devoted to the shooting down of the Korean aircraft. British politicians kept rather quiet about the matter too. I wonder why? And can anyone tell me why the grotesquely over-fed Nkomo, lately an unbidden guest in this country, wasn't arrested and charged with complicity in the massacre the moment he set foot on British soil?

FAUX PAS

Sir Robin Day's revelation that Michael Foot admitted to him during the General Election that in his opinion Mrs. Thatcher had no option but to order the sinking of the General Belgrano during the Falklands War may have been a breach of confidentiality, but it certainly put the cat among the pigeons. If Mr. Foot really believed that the sinking of the Belgrano was justified (as it undoubtedly was) then he should have had the courage to say so in public, no matter how many of his party colleagues may have taken umbrage. The lives of British servicemen were at stake. As it is, his evasiveness has clearly shown that for him, as with many other leading politicians, the party comes before Truth, Honour, Justice or Nation. And to think that had the election gone otherwise than it did, that bumbling and prevaricating old valetudinarian would now have been our Prime Minister — perish the thought!

A CARNIVAL OF CRIME

The euphoria and self-congratulation expressed by Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir Kenneth Newman in the aftermath of the Notting Hill carnival gave the impression that this year the carnival was a joyous crime-free occasion compared with previous years. But what are the facts? This year 317 crimes were reported and 75 arrests made, compared with 265 and 22 respectively in 1982. There were 208 muggings, compared with 139 last year; 25 robberies, compared with 24; and 17 drug offences, compared with 8. And this, Sir Kenneth would have us believe, is an improvement! It's not surprising that there was an increase in crime at this year's carnival since the police were given explicit instructions to keep a "low profile", and were told to take into consideration the "boisterous character" of West Indians.

No doubt this lenient attitude towards alien intruders revelling, robbing and rioting in our capital city is the price that we Britons have to pay so that the do-gooders, "social engineers" and racemixers can prove that "positive discrimination" works. However, it manifestly does not work, and time will show that the idea that it ever will is sheer fallacy. The police should be doing very much more important things than marshalling cavorting West Indians or standing by in case they riot. They could, for instance, be engaged in the search for the murderers and molesters of little boys and girls. The Notting Hill carnival should be banned: it's a waste of public money, police time and is an affront to the British people.

SIR KENNETH NEWMAN

DOLE RACE CHECK

The Commission for Racial Equality has at last reluctantly agreed to the Government's scheme for determining the ethnic origin of people on the dole by requiring Department of Employment officials at unemployment benefit offices to categorise claimants into African-West Indians, Asians, Europeans, Chinese or others. Until now, the CRE has opposed the scheme on the grounds that the information might be used as a means of identifying illegal immigrants; but it has withdrawn its objections following assurances that information about individuals will be kept confidential and will not be passed on to the Home Office or to immigration officials. This seems to me quite extraordinary. Surely it is the duty of the DoE, or any other Government Department for that matter, to uphold the law by informing the appropriate authorities if they have reason to believe that a crime has been committed. It needs to be pointed out to the DoE that illegal immigrants who claim unemployment benefits have committed at least two crimes: first, by being here; and second by using false pretences to obtain benefits to which they are not entitled.

PROVOKING ANIMOSITY

Author Roald Dahl has had his new series, Tales of the Unexpected, banned by Israeli TV and has also been condemned by Anglia TV boss Sir John Woolf for attacks he made on Israeli action in the Lebanon in a book review he recently wrote for the Literary Review. Unrepentant, Mr. Dahl followed this up by giving an interview to the New Statesman in which he asserted that "... there is a trait in the Jewish character that does provoke animosity, maybe it's a kind of lack of generosity towards non-Jews. I mean, there's always a reason why anti-semitism crops up anywhere; even a stinker like Hitler didn't just pick on them for no reason..." I predict that before Mr. Dahl, like the late Douglas Reed before him, will in future have some difficulty getting his books published!

THIS IS BRITAIN

Believe it or not, the clown making a fool of himself with these Jamaican ladies is no less a person than Mr. Ken Winfield, the Mayor of Peterborough. The occasion was a carnival held in the town to promote "multiracial harmony". There was a time when the office of Mayor was highly prized and its incumbents were expected to be people who acted with dignity and commanded the respect of their fellow citizens. Today, alas, many mayors, like the one shown here, far from commanding respect, seem more concerned with ingratiating themselves with the immigrant communities in their areas — presumably in the hope of winning a few more votes at the next local election.

British Nationalist, though it believes in racial differences, opposes race-hatred. All those who oppose multi-racialism should attack the politicians who promote it, not the immigrants, who are merely its victims.

YOUR LETTERS

Sir,—Now the elections are well behind us, it is worth bringing to the fore some important points and issues not usually mentioned in the media.

As most people know, the BNP had one TV and one radio broadcast during the election campaign, but since then it appears that the BBC has apologised to a person who complained about such broadcasts being allowed. No doubt another of the fine old democrats who believe in free speech.

The run-up to the hanging debate provided some interesting remarks in relation to why hanging should not be restored. All manner of examples were reported in the press and media, but a number of well-known people from all parties stated that "such barbaric methods cannot be condoned in a civilised society."

Are we to assume then that those who were sentenced and hanged as war criminals at Nuremberg were condemned by representatives of uncivilised societies, i.e. Britain, USA and USSR?

One issue the Tory party dropped altogether during their election campaign was the immigration issue. Not so in West Germany. The CDU who are now in office there, campaigned during 1982 and 1983 on the immigration issue and it appears that they now intend to repatriate some two million "guest workers" by 1990. No jobs to go to non-Germans unless they cannot be filled by Germans. Social welfare scroungers can be deported and also those who break the law. It seems that the West Germans have the courage to do what British Conservatives are afraid or do not intend to do.

R. RHODES,
Gloucester.

Sir,—There was a surprising omission from the chart in your August issue showing the "no choice" situation between the main parties on major issues — Ulster.

All are in favour of a "united" Ireland, though they fudge the issue by hypocritically stating that any change must come by "the will of the people". And we all know what that means. Every move they make is in the direction of "unity".

This is a major issue affecting the national unity of Britain itself, since any transfer of sovereignty in Ulster would immediately lead to renewed agitation for Scottish and Welsh "devolution" — a move that could only lead to the final disintegration of the UK.

PHILIP BAKER,

BNP pushes ahead in Scotland

New units formed after visit by leaders

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY took a major step forward in Scotland last month with a visit to the region by the party's Chairman John Tyndall and National Organiser Charles Parker.

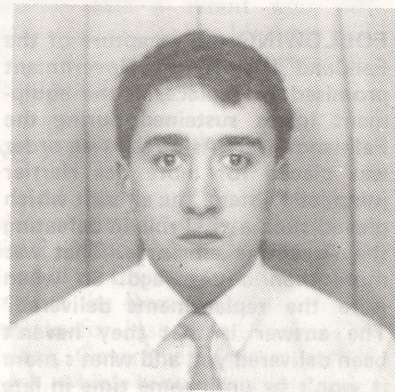

Mr. Tyndall and Mr. Parker spoke at a meeting of the BNP Glasgow branch on Saturday, September 24th, which was attended by nearly 40 people, a number of them newcomers who had enquired about the party following the General Election broadcasts. Both spoke about the deterioration of Britain during the 20th Century, with particular reference to how that deterioration had affected Scotland, with so many of the most skilled Scots workers and professional people having to seek employment abroad. After the meeting there was a really lively question time and some of the newcomers announced their intention of joining.

On the following day, after several hours discussion with the Glasgow Organiser Eric Brand, the two leaders made for Edinburgh, where they took part in an informal meeting attended by about 20 people. As a result of this meeting two important steps forward were made. Firstly, a group of Nationalists was brought together to work in the Edinburgh area. Although this group is not yet officially part of the BNP, its members have undertaken to promote regular sales of British Nationalist, with an initial order of 100 copies per month, as well as distribute other BNP literature. Secondly, a small cell was established for the party in Aberdeen, from whence two keen Nationalists had travelled the 120 miles to Edinburgh. Literature sales and the following up of enquiries will begin in Aberdeen this month.

To Eric Brand and a hard and dedicated nucleus of Glasgow members must go most of the credit for the progress the BNP has so far made in Scotland. Mr. Brand is a sociology student in his early 20s and one of the best, while youngest, local leaders the party has. As we go to press we take this opportunity to congratulate Eric and his wife Luisella on the birth of a baby girl.

MARCH STOPPED AT NEWCASTLE

TYNE AND WEAR POLICE, acting in accordance with policy directives from the Home Office, forced a cancellation of a British National Party march in Newcastle last month by imposing a last-minute time change on the organisers of the march which made it impossible for it to go ahead except with minimal support. Big local publicity was nonetheless gained.

REGIONAL NEWS

LEWISHAM

"STOP THE MUGGINGS! STOP THE RIOTS! STOP THE RAPES! BRING BACK THE ROPE!" - every Sunday morning throughout the year demands like these can be heard coming from a small but dedicated band of BNP activists who sell British Nationalist in the Brick Lane area of East London.

Led by the redoubtable Richard Edmonds, for many years a familiar figure on the Nationalist scene, most of those who turn up belong to the Lewisham Branch, though several come from other branches and some from much farther afield, like John Morse from Winchester and Ian Wilson from Basingstoke.

Over the years Messrs. Edmonds and Morse have developed remarkable megaphone voices which command the attention of Sunday-morning shoppers a long way off, but during recent months they have been ably supported by the feminine tones of the intrepid Christine Yianni from Hackney.

ACTIVISTS IN BRICK LANE
l.tor.: Christine Yianni, Billy Walker, Adam Saunders & Ricky Fawcus.

Then there are the others, young and old, who week in and week out, fair weather or foul, sacrifice their Sunday mornings in the Cause of British Nationalism by lending a hand to organise the sale, sell the papers and give support when and where it is needed - stalwarts like Les Taylor, Jim Guenigault, Adam Saunders, Ricky Fawcus, Alan Macarree, Billy Walker, Bryan Phillips and others whose names escape us.

The efforts of all these people are greatly appreciated by every true Briton, and their fine example doesn't pass unnoticed. If there were a few activists of their dedication in every village, town and city of our country, the ultimate victory of British Nationalism would now be an accomplished fact.

Volunteers to sell papers in Brick Lane or elsewhere please come along next Sunday to see how it's done!

ENFIELD

Last month Enfield Branch held a successful jumble sale which raised £84 for Branch funds. Mr. David Bruce, Enfield Branch chairman, told British Nationalist that it is essential for branches and groups to start raising funds now for the next General Election. Mr. Bruce, who is an acknowledged master of fund raising, added that he is willing to visit branches and advise them how to improve their fund-raising activities. Anyone interested please contact Mr. Bruce via Head Office.

LIVERPOOL

Liverpool BNP is to be congratulated for producing its informative newsletter, Liverpool Patriot. The newsletter appears quarterly and is edited by Ken Usher. The latest issue contains an interesting article entitled "The A to Z of British Nationalism" which all Nationalists would do well to read. Liverpool Patriot can be obtained from BNP, PO Box 72, Liverpool L69 8AJ. Price 10p plus postage.

Chinamen and Vietnamese are permitted to settle here and multiply - with official approval and at public expense!

Many British Nationalists were protesting about the destruction of the environment long before there was such a thing as an "Ecology Party". We must not by default allow such a left-wing sympathising, fellow-travelling, anti-British group wrest from us what should be a major plank of Nationalist ideology as the preservation of our own environment. The British National Party must loudly proclaim that "British Nationalists care about the environment!" It is, after all, part and parcel of our heritage.
